The class will provide an overview of chapter 7 bankruptcy law, including the right to a discharge of debt. An important case, Bruning v. United States, which was presented by Professor Moser in the first semester of the academic year, will be discussed in class. The course will conclude with a study of the bankruptcy code, with a focus on changes made to the code over the last half century. Course Objectives The following are the course objectives: Review the basic elements of chapter 7 bankruptcy as they relate to the insolvency presumption. Discuss the exceptions to discharge as they exist in chapter 7. Learn about debtors' rights in chapter 7, including the right to a discharge of debt. Learn about the right to a discharge of debt in a chapter 13 case. Follow the court's approach to the "totality of circumstances" approach in determining whether or not to grant a debtor's discharge in chapter 7 cases. Learn about the impact on the bankruptcy process of laws enacted since 1977.Cytology of ceroid lipofuscinosis. Cells were obtained from two cases of ceroid lipofuscinosis (Krabbe disease) and were analyzed by cytological techniques. The cells were classically large with an eccentric nucleus and large, pale cytoplasm. The perinuclear clear "bud" cytoplasmic inclusions were absent in both cases. The cells were markedly positive for acid phosphatase and were relatively unstained by antibodies for lysozyme. The ultrastructural appearance of the cells was that of diffuse, intralysosomal, autophagic vacuolization of the cytoplasm.~ gabrielgoh Yes, you are right. I didn't give enough examples about the trigger event being "onKey" and the action being triggered on "click". Another example can be seen here [2] as it's in the FAQ [1] [
