We have a sitting President with a successful Democratic Party on his side, and he is still in. The Republican Party is in shambles. While the Democrat/Media are trying to use their best High School debate strategy of repeating slander in a slow hum.they are turning the whole country into a poison-vomit of slander and pure hatred, and the death toll is rising by leaps and bounds. We can not wait. How about starting with the House and Senate races in your home state? Get to work if you think you can be “the change”. Finally, the average voter is losing patience. That’s right. Finally. The sharp decline in support for Democrats over the past two weeks is a breath of fresh air that we all needed. The results in the coming months will determine whether 2018 will be a wave year or not. Support for Democrats has increased by 4 points since the first week of March, reflecting a broad and growing political rejection of the Trump-led Republican Party. For the first time in two years, the gap between Republicans and Democrats has not shrunk following the GOP 6d1f23a050
